VINA COBOS

Mendoza | Argentina

THE STORY

Viña Cobos, nestled in Argentina's renowned Mendoza region, is a winery that promises an exceptional wine experience, combining the intensity of Argentina's terroir with world-class craftsmanship. Founded over twenty years ago by famed Californian winemaker Paul Hobbs, Viña Cobos has redefined what Argentine wine can be.

Paul played a pioneering and pivotal role in launching premium Malbec and helped transform Argentina into a world-class wine region. He is recognized throughout the world for breaking with tradition and forging new paths in the pursuit of excellence. With several 100-point scores to his name, Paul knows how to make wine!

The winery is celebrated for its meticulous attention to detail, from vine to bottle, with grapes grown in high-altitude vineyards that benefit from the perfect balance of sun, cool nights, and mineral-rich soils.

Their wines, like the iconic Cobos Malbec and Bramare, are rich, bold, and layered, offering dark fruit flavours like blackberry and plum, balanced by elegant tannins and a lingering finish. Each bottle reflects the power and finesse that the Malbec grape can achieve in the hands of a skilled winemaker. If you're looking to explore the heights of Argentine winemaking, Viña Cobos is a must-try.

Bramare - an Italian word meaning "to yearn". It symbolises the first step of Paul's dive into Mendocinian microsite exploration and terroir differentiation.

Their Felino brand characterises the lively qualities of the purest varietal expressions coming from Mendoza and are the perfect introduction to Argentinian terroir.
